THE COUPLE After Lauren Scannell and Lee Robinson caught each other's eye at the gym, it was quickly evident that their hearts were about to be affected by more than just cardio workouts.

THE DETAILS Heartfelt details surrounded the couple on their big day at the Museum of Contemporary Art Chicago. Personal touches made the day even more special: Lee's lifelong friend officiated the ceremony, and Lauren donned a custom bracelet made from her mother's pearls and a necklace made from Lee's grandmother's wedding ring, gifted to the bride that morning.

THE PARTY The couple went for a classic-meets-contemporary vibe, with shades of blue, gray, silver and chartreuse. Revel Decor outfitted the tables with monochromatic tulips, orchids and green cymbidiums. Guests were in awe as the couple took the dance floor with their parents for a special dance performance—a moment for which they had all been practicing for months. When the party died down, the couple jetted off to Riviera Maya for a relaxing sun-soaked honeymoon. —Felicia Darnell

What We Learned

"We practiced our father/daughter, mother/son dances for months before the big day!" says Lauren. "They were very special fun and unforgettable."

Clockwise from above: Lauren clutched a simple bouquet of white long-stemmed calla lilies; Pink Poppy Ink created a stationery suite in the couple's blue, gray and silver palette; Revel Decor decked out the Museum of Contemporary Art Chicago with towering cylindrical centerpieces and hanging lanterns.
